

Recognition Primed Decision Framework

1. Identify the decisions that are part of your job.
  - What makes those decisions difficult
  - What are common errors
  - How does someone with more experience than you make decisions
2. Practice making decisions in context
  - Think back to a situation you were in—what were the cues you picked up on and what did you miss?
3. Practice with a co-worker who was in the situation with you to see what they picked up on that you didn't
4. Analyze your decision steps to identify what you would do differently next time

This framework is based on the book The Power of Intuition: How to Use Your Gut Feelings to Make Better Decisions at Work, Gary Klein
